THE STATESMEN

Washington-Henry H.S., Ellerson, Va.

I. Production -

Binding - Good.

Printing - Good, clarity is excellent.

Photography - Average, lacks uniform tone.

II. Content -

Cover - Conservative, but attractive, light colored covers tend to spoil, if possible should be avoided, if it wouldn't hurt color scheme of whole book.

Interior Layout - The inside of the covers are particularly worthy of note, they add to the looks of book and make use of limited space to capacity. The coverage is excellent, with exception of sports which deserves more attention. Lack of theme distracts from value of book.

Division Pages - Clear cut individual pages, but do not contribute to the continuity of the book. Change of colors of classes distracts from the balance of book.

Ads - Average, have too many on a page, which tends to limit income.

III. General -

The overall appearance of the book is good, however the fact there is no theme tends to produce a certain vagueness. If color is to be used, and in this case it beautifies the book, it should be done with some uniformity. In view of the finances, this is a commendable effort.

RATING - Distinguished.

DEDICATION

We, the Senior Class of 1949, Washington-Henry High School, dedicate our annual to Mr. Gordon Higgins, who for the past two years has been principal of Washington-Henry School. In appreciation of his inspiring leadership and good example, we dedicate this humble work of ours to him.

WASHINGTON-HENRY HIGH SCHOOL

Washington-Henry, one of the oldest schools in Virginia, was founded in 1778 at the time when George Washington was leading his troops triumphantly through Valley Forge, and Patrick Henry's immortal speeches were still ringing in the ears of the people. The academy was under the direction of 13 trustees, with Rev. Daniel McCauley as president. It was first operated as a boys' boarding school; however, in 1866, girls were admitted. In 1878, after 100 years of service as a private academy, Washington-Henry became a member of the free school system.

In 1882, the trustees of the Washington-Henry Academy sold to the Henry District School Board 20 acres of land upon which was built the first public grade school in the Ellerson-Atlee Community.

The Washington-Henry Academy became a public high school in 1906, and in 1915 a new school building was erected and a new vocational building constructed. In 1918, this became a four-year accredited high school, the enrollment increasing to such an extent that it became necessary to construct a new building. In 1939, the present $60,000 brick building was erected. In 1942, the agriculture building was completed. In 1946, the athletic field was completed and a better gymnasium was added which enabled the students to enjoy a wider variety of activities.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

In 1945, we, a frightened class of thirty-eight, entered high school determined to make our class one to be remembered.

With Mrs. Mann as our home room teacher, we strived very hard to reach our goals. The year was highlighted for us by our first high school party. We welcomed into our freshman class Ann Stanley and Marvareen Porter. By the end of the term, the class was self-confident and ready to take on another year of high school.

When we entered the Sophomore class the following September, several familiar faces were missing, but a new one in the form of Jack Deaton joined us. Under the guidance of Miss Juanita Rhodes, (Mrs. Fitzgerald), we settled down to a year of hard work. We had several parties and we were very active in sports and extra activities. We found that another year had passed rapidly for us.

When we returned to school in September of '48, we welcomed Edward Thomas into our class. Mrs. John Mann was our sponsor. Our Junior year was a period of steady activity, for many of our girls were on the basketball and softball team. The boys were playing basketball, football, and baseball. There were few who participated in literary events. The greatest event was the Junior-Senior Prom which was enjoyed by all.

At last we have achieved what we have worked and strived for so long--we are Seniors of '49. It has been a year filled with activities. We had fun in presenting the Senior Play "Don't take my Penny", which was a great success. We also edited the school paper and the school annual. In the early spring, the class enjoyed the second Junior-Senior Prom our school has ever had. This year James Thayer and William Fair were made members of our class. These things, and many more, have made this year the most perfect of our school years, thanks to Miss Quarles who has been our Senior teacher and who is so devoted to us.

Now we are about to graduate. We pause before taking this great step, and look back over the pleasant days spent at Washington-Henry. Some of us may leave this school far behind, but the memories of this dear place will linger with us forever.

The class of '49 wishes to express its deepest appreciation to the teachers who have helped to make these high school years successful and happy. We are going out into something, we know not what, but we hope and pray that we will be prepared for whatever is ahead. We are going to face the future with warm courage and high hope of achieving greater goals

SENIOR PROPHECY

Having just purchased a new television set, I would like to test it out to see if it will really do all that the dealer claims that it will. The new 1959 model is the most revolutionary television set ever produced. The added feature which is making it so popular is a device which enables the operator to tune in anywhere in the United States and see anything that is happening. With this new set, there are no stations to be tuned in because stations are not needed. I am still a bit skeptical about this machine, but I think we shall give it a test. Since it was exactly ten years ago that I graduated from Washington-Henry, I think it appropriate that we should look up my old classmates of '49 to see if they have achieved their ambitions.

After much reading of instructions and adjusting of dials we finally get the first picture. It is a classroom of Richmond Professional Institute. Teaching a class of music students we find Leslie Oakley, who during his years at Washington-Henry showed real talent for this profession.

The next scene carries us to California, where we find Jeannette Crowe busy designing gowns for movie stars. When we look in on one of the many studios where Jeannette's gowns are worn, on stage is Jean Givens, displaying great talent as she did in the senior play back in '49.

When we switch to the office of a large construction company, there sits none other but Jim Thayer, now president of the company. When we look in the adjacent office, we find Janice Borkey, now a secretary.

We go way out West now to a big dude ranch, and the cowgirl sitting on the fence there is Dot Carneal, who is so fond of horses that she has bought herself a ranch. That fellow over there who is having such a time getting on the horse looks like Bill Fair, who has come out West to do more of his painting for which he is becoming nationally famous.

After turning a few dials the screen focuses on a huge farm out in Iowa, with great level fields of corn. Way out in one of the fields is a tractor, driven by someone who looks very familiar. When we enlarge the picture on the television screen, it proves to be Douglas Crump, and whom should we spy in the kitchen of the farm house but Dot Lumpkin, doing her housework.

San Francisco harbor next crosses the screen and as we look through the crowd, there is a familiar face about to board one of the ships---Bettie Davis has finally become a missionary and is on her way to China. It is a good thing we didn't wait any longer, because the television set is effective only in the United States.

We are now taken to one of the most famous hospitals in the country, Johns-Hopkins in Baltimore. Here comes three nurses down the corridor, and if I'm not mistaken they are Thelma Vaughan, Eleanor Yarbrough, and Ann Stanley.

When we look in on the dear old school of Washington-Henry, we hardly recognize the place. New buildings and athletic fields have completely changed the place. I believe that is the athletic director over there supervising games, and it looks like my old classmate Peggy Nuckols. Inside the school in one of the new classrooms sits Allene Atkinson, who succeeded Miss Quarles when she retired.

Next an office filled with plans and blueprints crosses the screen, and in the middle of all these papers sits Edward Thomas, the architect.

We find another of my old classmates in Miami, Florida. It is Mary Ann Gammon, who now owns a very beautiful and modernistic beauty shop catering to the rich tourists who go South for the winter.

The next face to cross the screen is that of James Popek, now a wealthy and successful banker in Philadelphia. His success is probably due in part to the valuable experience which he gained while serving as treasurer back in '49.

We go now to New York to one of the beautiful fashion shops along Fifth Avenue, where the first model to catch our eye is Bettie Broyles, wearing a gorgeous new creation from Paris.

Bernard Cross we find in the real estate business and he is one of the best known and best liked agents in the state of Virginia.

The television screen next captures the quiet solitude of the Richmond City Library, where the chief librarian is Pauline Jennings.

Switching to the governor's mansion we now find Beverly Smith receiving an award for doing the impossible---he has succeeded in raising four hundred bushels of corn per acre, a feat never before accomplished in Virginia.

It gives me great pride and pleasure to see that all of my classmates have been so successful in their work. My only wish is that they continue to prosper in everything that they do. And now I must catch the plane for Southern Africa to look over my diamond mines and do a little tiger hunting.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the class of 1949, of the Washington-Henry High School, in the town of Ellerson, the county of Hanover, and the Commonwealth of Virginia, being in full possession of sound and disposing minds, and memory, do hereby make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all other wills at any time made.

All the friends of the deceased have been remembered, and every gift has been meted out with wise and careful judgement.

Item I. To the history of dear old Washington-Henry we bequeath our brilliant record and unusual achievements inscribed on a tablet and placed in the most conspicuous position in the auditorium. We also leave our divided opinion and ability to produce at the zero hour. Trusting that the classes that follow us will gain much from our class of '49.

Item II. To our principal, Mr. Gordon Higgins, we bequeath our sincerest thanks and deepest gratitude for his wise suggestions, his patience, and his interest in our problems. We also bequeath to him a buyer for his jeep so that he may get his heart's desire--a new Chevrolet.

Item III. We give and bequeath to the beloved faculty, who have been our instructors in all the wisdom of the ages, our valuable sense of humor, and our very kindest regards and sincere gratitude for all they have done for us.

To Mr. Carter we leave a new radiator cap for "Henry".

To Miss Quarles we bequeath a problem solver to help solve her problems.

To Mr. Jeffers we leave Leslie's bus, so he can take all his and Mr. Carter's children home safely.

To Mrs. Mann we leave a copy of "Over The Back Fence", so she can be well informed of all the news.

To Miss Saville we bequeath all our "noise and merry-making", in hopes that she will be more talkative in the future.

Item IV. To the class of 1950, our rightful successors, we leave:

First, our well known nerve which they will need next year. Second, our clean table in the cafeteria. Third, our privileges and rights as seniors in classroom and assemblies. And last, but not least, our ability to get teachers off the subject, thus avoiding class.

Item V. To the ever striving sophomores, we leave our good luck. It made us what we are today, and it should satisfy them.

Item VI. To the young and unsuspecting freshmen, we bequeath our knowledge of what is in store for them in the years to come. Trusting that when they reach this point in their careers they will be well upon the road to success.

Item VII. The following may seem but trifling bequests, but we hope that they may be accepted, and a continual reminder of the generosity of the Class of '49.

1. Allene Atkinson, after growing weary of her bright smile and dimples, unselfishly wills them to Bernice Jones.
2. Janis Borkey leaves her sewing ability to anyone in the Home Economics class who needs it.
3. Betty Lee Broyles leaves her technique with the Battlefield boys to Nadine Hazelgrove.
4. Dorothea Mae Carneal leaves her riding ability to Betty Bentley.
5. Bernard Cross leaves his "bird call" to anyone who can master the art.
6. Jeannette Crowe leaves her constant talk to Helen Heath.
7. Jack Deaton leaves a fourth of his height to his brother, Reid.
8. Sonny Crump leaves his position as half-back on the football team, to Hunter Hanback.
9. Bill Fair bequeaths his artistic ability to Fred Givens.
10. Mary Ann Gammon leaves her way with the men to Neva Mae Sledd.
11. Jean Givens leaves her typing ability to the incoming typing classes.
12. To any one who needs it, Pauline Jennings leaves her brilliance.
13. Dorothy Mae Lumpkin bequeaths her ability in bookkeeping class to Bobby Apperson, so he can keep his paper route straight.
14. To Patsy Kinker, Peggy Nuckols leaves her position on the basketball court.
15. Leslie Oakley leaves his ability to get along with the principal to Harold Bradley.
16. To Billy Barnett, James Popek leaves his ability to drive the bus.
17. Beverly Smith leaves his position as shortstop on the baseball field to Norman Bowles.
18. Bettie Davis leaves her books to all the students at Washington-Henry to love, honor, cherish, and above all--study.
19. Ann Stanley leaves her soft voice to Shirley June Gammon, the combination should be perfect.
20. Jimmy Thayer leaves his driving power on the football field to his brother, Johnny.
21. Edward Thomas bequeaths his laughs and fun-loving nature to Marion Hodges.
22. Eleanor Yarbrough leaves her quietness to Mary Jane Hubbard.
23. To Christine Berkley, Thelma Vaughn leaves her "Baby doll face".
24. To our home room teacher, Miss Quarles, we leave a clean room full of empty desks and a class of seniors who always come to class on time. We also bequeath a class of students who can understand Macbeth.

Finally, we do hereby name and appoint as the sole executor of this, our last will and testament, our principal, Mr. Gordon Higgins.

In witness thereof, we, the class of 1949, have to this will set our hands and seal this second day of June, 1949.
